Evening

Activists across the country are engaged in a battle - one side racing to influence their state legislators to pass applications for a Constitutional Convention, the other side working feverishly to educate the people that Nullification is the better method.

Constitutional Scholar Robert Brown lays out and dismantles the arguments for an Article V Convention, and offers historical perspectives regarding the 1787 Constitutional Convention. He will also discuss the role of Congress and critique the rhetoric of Article V supporters. Learn about the dangers and disadvantages of a Convention and what solutions are currently working to rein in our out-of-control government.

Robert Brown has produced six of his lectures as a DVD series titled, "The Constitution is the Solution." A popular Constitutional speaker, he has lectured for many organizations throughout the western U.S.
